DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 28-30 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 28, line 2, "U-plates" is indefinite.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 20, 21, and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Sakakida et al. (U. S. 5,211,694).

With respect to claims 20, 23 Sakakida et al. disclose a fixing device for a seat belt retractor (5) for attachment to a vehicle part, comprising: a seat belt retractor housing (34) having a housing plate(72), wherein the housing plate has at least one fixing opening (76) for receiving a screw connection engaging the vehicle part in a fixing opening (78) formed thereon, wherein the seat belt retractor housing is rotatably disposed relative to the fixing opening of the vehicle part, so that the seat belt retractor is oriented automatically in a direction of a force of a belt which moves at an angle with respect to an axis of a shaft of the seat belt retractor (Figure 10B); and a holder part (74), wherein the seat belt retractor housing is rotatably held on the holder part wherein the holder part is fixedly connected with the vehicle part wherein the seat belt retractor housing is held by means of the holder part at a distance to the fixing opening wherein the seat belt retractor housing is fixed to the holder part in such a way that the seat belt retractor housing is rotatable relative to the holder part in a direction opposite to a pre-set resistance (Figure 10B).

With respect to claim 21, Sakakida et al. disclose the fixing device, wherein the holder part (74) is formed as a flat part with an opening (78) for guiding through of an attachment means, wherein the attachment means serves to attach the holder part to the vehicle part (19), and wherein the holder part has a further opening (76) for rotatable attachment of the seat belt retractor housing to the holder part.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 22 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sakakida et al. (U. S. 5,211,694) in view of Nishide (U. S. 6,581,969).

With respect to claim 22, Sakakida et al. is silent about what type of connecting pin is used for attachment of the retractor frame (34) to the tongue-like coupling member (74). However, Nishide discloses a rivet (68) for attachment. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to the invention of Sakakida et al. such that it comprised a rivet in view of the teachings of Nishide so as to facilitate swivel movement.

7. Claim 25 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sakakida et al. (U. S. 5,211,694) in view of Hosoda et al., (U. S. 5,951,046).

With respect to claim 25, Sakakida et al. disclose the claimed invention. Sakakida et al. does not disclose a fixing shoulder. However, Hosoda et al., disclose a locking portion (11) (Figure 6). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the invention of Sakkara et al. such that it comprised a fixing shoulder in view of the teachings of Hosoda et al., so as to facilitate attachment to a vehicle body.

8. Claims 36 and 37 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sakkara et al., (U. S. 5,211,694) in view of Matsuo (U. S. 5,823,628).

With respect to claim 36, Sakakida et al. disclose the claimed invention. Sakakida et al. does not disclose a weld nut. However, Matsuo discloses a weld nut (36). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the invention of Sakakida et al. such that it comprised a weld nut in view of the teachings of Matsuo, so as to better secure components.

With respect to claim 37, the combination discloses the claimed invention, except for the holder part comprises plastic. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to have the holder part comprised plastic, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPD 416.

Allowable Subject Matter

9. Claims 24, 26, 27 and 38 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

10. Claims 28-35 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
